OF PILING
SPECIALISTS

Why Use an FPS Member?

Piling is a specialist and complex construction process requiring significant expertise to deliver successful engineered solutions to today's building demand. For peace of mind, reduced risk and value-for-money, it is therefore, important to select the most appropriate specialist piling contractor. Choosing a Federation of Piling Specialists' (FPS) member is your guarantee that piling work will be undertaken professionally and to the highest level.

The FPS' Registration System, in which all its members must achieve a pass mark, sets a rigorous benchmark that represents good practice.

It ensures all FPS members maintain the highest standards of health and safety, technical ability and quality management, for peace of mind and reduced risk that delivers true value-for-money.

It is a requirement that all members of the FPS must have passed an independent audit, which scrutinises and evaluates each member across a range of areas including health and safety, quality, best practice and sustainability. With a benchmarked pass level that is subject to review and continues to be raised, you have confidence in all work undertaken.

Many principal contractors use FPS members because of their demonstrated and evaluated health and safety commitment

Confidence comes in the knowledge that FPS members have been subject to rigorous assessment for:

- Technical Ability
- Quality Management
- Safety
- Environmental Policies & Procedures
- Commitment to Training

The FPS and its members work positively with supply chain partners, and through engagement with the FPS Associate Membership, solves problems that provides a seamless working commitment to improving quality and standards for all.
